A GUIDE TO EXCHANGE TRADED FUNDS
 & INDEXING INNOVATIONS

FROM THE EDITOR

Amazingly, the Guide to Exchange-Traded Funds is in its seventh year. It does not seem like that long ago that we did the first ETF Guide. We thought that there would be enough interest in this asset class to do two or three guides. As we complete number seven, interest continues to be strong and widespread. Assets in both domestic and international ETFs are still growing at a rapid pace. According to a report by State Street Global Advisors, there were 708 ETFs listed in the U.S. overseen by 24 managers, with assets totaling about $578 billion as of the end of July, 2008. I remember back in the early 90s when SSgA launched the first ETF during my tenure there (although credit goes elsewhere as all I did was watch from the sidelines). New products are being launched continuously as ETFs expand into new sectors and regions.

Over the past seven years we have made it our goal to bring you information on the latest innovations in the industry. This year our line-up includes articles on the impact of spreads on ETFs, the use of ETFs and ETNs in rising inflation environments, the popularity of ETFs in hedge funds, ETFs and liquidity, and fixed income ETFs that allow bonds to be traded like stocks.

The articles in the Guide offer practical and detailed information on product options, sector allocation and investment strategies. We hope you find this information useful and insightful. We look forward to your submissions for ETF 8!
